J. Word of the capture spread to the Italian settlement about a mile from the washery and great excitement was the re-

PASSENGER CAR UPSET

Soft Earth Caused Derailing of P. R. R. Coach in Camden.

MANY PERSONS WERE INJURED

All in Overturned Coach Received a Severe Jolting and Their Lives Were Imperiled by Flames,, Which Were Quickly Subdued.

Camden, N. J., May 8.—More than a score of persons were injured by the upsetting of a passenger coach of the Cape May express of the West Jersey and Seashore railroad at Haddon avenue. All those who were in the car received a severe jolting and were thrown from their seats. The terror of the startled riders was augmented by the gas tank beneath the car exploding and setting fire to the woodwork. Prompt action by the engineer and bystanders prevented any of the passengers being fatally burned. A broken rail was the cause of the accident.

Those injured and removed to the hospital were: Joseph E. C. Hart, Philadelphia, both hands cut by splintered glass and bruises of the legs; Mr. and Mrs. Albert Hart, Philadelphia, cut by broken glass; Mrs. J. E. Eldridge, Holly Beach, thigh gashed; J. E. Eldridge, Holly Beach, hands cut and knees lacerated; J. H. Mispel, Camden, hands and face cut; Mrs. J. H. Mispel, Camden, hysterical from shock; Miss Elwood Wolf, Philadelphia, hair partially burned, incised wounds of elbow and forearm bruised; James E. Smith, Haddonfield, hair and mustache burned and lacerated knees; Mrs. Laura Knapp, Ocean City, cut about face.

The majority of the injured left the hospital as soon as their wounds were treated.

As the engine rounded the curve at Haddon avenue men on the station platform saw the soft ballast of the road sink. As the first car passed over the spot the outside rail split and threw the next two cars off the track. The train was moving slowly and the engineer heard the yells of alarm from the bystanders. He shut off the steam and applied the breaks, but not before the fourth coach had toppled over on its side the trucks having left the ties and the wheels buried themselves in the soft earth. As the trucks sank the gas tank was scraped along the tracks and it is supposed the friction caused the vapor to explode.

Almost before the terrified passengers in the car knew what had hurled them from their seats the report of the explosion was heard and a sheet of flame enveloped the bottom and upper side of the car. The lower part of the car rested against the stone wall that is being built for the elevation of the road at that point and prevented the coach from falling flat on its side. This gave the imprisoned passengers a chance to escape through the windows. As the car went over the glass in the windows and skylights were shattered and the sharp fragments fell in showers on the terror stricken passengers.

WILL TEST JERSEY LAW

Act Creating Assembly Districts to Be Taken to Court.

Trenton, N. J., May 8.—The first step has been taken in the program of the Republican state leaders to test the constitutionality of the law passed by the recent legislature creating assembly districts. Harry F. Smith, a local Republican leader, made application to County Clerk Baker, of this county, for copies of the law and was refused. The law creating assembly districts imposes upon county clerks the duty of having printed and distributed copies of the law. Mandamus proceedings will now be instituted against Baker. In this way it is hoped to have an early decision by the court of errors as to the law's constitutionality. In the mandamus proceedings the supreme court will of course reiterate the decision of the same court rendered several years ago against assembly districts, and the case will be taken to the court of errors at once.

OIL MAGNATES ANSWER

Won't Bandy Words With President, and Say Charges Are Unjust.

New York, May 5.—In reply to President Roosevelt's message and the report of Commissioner Garfield, Messrs. H. H. Rogers and John D. Archbold, of the Standard Oil company, said that their examination of the message and report had necessarily been a hurried one, and that they should at a later date make a full answer to their shareholders. Meanwhile, they made the following statement:

"In the president's effort to secure the passage of a bill enlarging the powers of the interstate commerce commission, and just and equitable railway rates, we have precisely the same interest that any good citizen has. No more and no less. Regarding his criticims upon the management of the railways, or his structures upon any acts of the interstate commerce commission we have neither responsibility nor concern. When, however, Commissioner Garfield criticises the Standard Oil company and uses its methods of doing business as an object lesson for the purpose of promoting his views, we protest. It may be frankly stated that the Standard Oil company has at all times, within the limits of fairness and with due regard for the law, sought to secure the most advantageous freight rates and routes possible.. There will be no denial of this fact on our part. The question is whether we have at any point evaded the law or the proprieties.

"One does not care to bandy words with the president of the United States. It is not easy to differentiate between Mr. Roosevelt, the president, and Mr. Roosevelt, the individual. He has given of us his advice most generously upon every subject, from the size of our families to the mistakes of the federal judges, and some error is inevitable now and then to the most conservative man under such circumstances.

"We say flatly that any assertion that the Standard Oil company has been or is now knowingly engaged in practices which are unlawuful is alike untruthful and unjust.

"In dealing with the discriminations which are alleged to be violations of the interstate commerce law, the plain answer is that if Mr. Garfield's statement is correct it was the duty of the interstate commerce commission to have taken action and brought not alone the Standard Oil company, but the railway companies involved to book, and this they have never done. Violations of the law in this respect do not fall within the jurisdiction of the bureau of corporations, and any statement on the part of Mr. Garfield respecting this subject is gratuitious and valueless.

"The grief which the president expresses in his message over the inability of the railroads to combine and protect themselves from the shippers will probably arouse amusement.

"The president says respecting this investigation that the facts are not in dispute, only the inferences are disputed. The Standard Oil company furnished the facts, and a man with a muck rake dug out such as under his manipulation he felt would prove damaging.

"The Standard Oil company has been investigated over and over again at the instigation of its rivals, and it always welcomes such investigation when conducted in good faith and fairly. We are engaged in a large and honorable business. We are conducting it honorably, and we sincerely believe in conformity to law."

CRASH ON PENNSY

Many Killed and Injured In Head-On Collision Between Fast Trains.

Altoona, Pa., May 5.—The Chicago mail train, No. 21, and the Chicago and St. Louis express, No. 18, on the Pennsylvania railroad, running at full speed, met head-on near Springfield Furnace, on the Petersburg Cut-Off, 18 miles from this city. It was at first reported that three persons had been killed and 27 injured, but later reports indicate that the casualties were under-estimated. A few hours before 37 freight cars had been wrecked at Union Furnace, on the middle division, 20 miles east of this city, and all trains were being run around Altoona over the cut-off. The Chicago mail left this city on time and went at far as Tyrone, where it was sent back to go over the cut-off. The Chicago and St. Louis express was sent west from Huntington, and the two trains met at Springfield Junction, where there is but one track. The cause of the disaster is said to have been a misunderstanding of orders by the operator at Springfield Junction.

Both locomotives, the express and mail cars and passenger coaches are completely demolished. One of the trains was running reversed, with the coach next to the engine. Twenty-five passengers were in this coach, and it is reported that all are either dead or wounded. It is feared that the number of dead will exceed the first estimate, reaching possibly eight of ten.

Among the men killed are Trainmen Dougherty, Snyder and Derrick, residences at present unknown.

President Sends Bill to Congress In Interest of Three Dismissed for Hazing.

Washington, May 4. — Three midshipmen, dismissed from the naval academy for hazing, have been recommended by the president for restoration to the academy, with a loss of one year. The midshipmen are Worth W. Foster, a member of the first class, and George H. Melvin and Richard L. Desassure, members of the third class.

President Roosevelt sent to Senator Hale and Representative Foss, respectively the chairmen of the senate and house committees on naval affairs, an identical letter, accompanying the draft of a bill providing for the restoration to the academy of the three midshipmen.

In his letter the president says: "After a careful consideration of history of the recent trials for hazing at Annapolis, I am satisfied that in the case of each of these young men justice and the interests of the naval service will be best served by making the punishment in effect a reduction to the next lower class at the academy, involving loss of numbers, with corresponding loss of rank and pay in his later naval career, rather than a complete severance from the service by dismissal."

COMFORTING WORDS.

MANY A BELLEFONTE HOUSEHOLD WILL FIND THEM SO.

To have the pains and aches of a bad back removed; to be entirely free from annoying, dangerous urinary disorders is enough to make any kidney sufferer grateful. To tell how this great change can be brought about will prove comforting words to hundreds of Bellefonte readers.

James Hassie, farmer, living at Jersey Shore, Pa., says: "I seemed to be unable to find anything to give me relief from backache. I tried all of our home remedies and consulted physicians; besides to grow weaker and more painful. At length I saw Doan's Kidney Pills highly spoken of and recommended by Lock Haven people whom I knew, and I made up my mind to try them. I went to Lock Haven and Mr. Mason, the druggist, told me that I could no find any better medicine. I got a box and began using them, and inside of forty-eight hours I felt decided improvement. I was cured in a short time and have never had backache since. That is proof enough for me of the merits of Doan's Kidney Pills."

Plenty more proof like this from Bellefonte people. Call at F. Potts Green's drug store and ask what his customers report.

THE SHARK HUNTERS.

Horrible but Alleged Painless Way the Fish Are Killed.

The strictly commercial business of shark hunting is done in small sloops whose headquarters are in the more northerly Norwegian ports. The crews are for the most part made up of pure blooded descendants of the vikings, who are still to be found in any number among the codfishers of Hammerfest of Tromso. And a magnificent race of men they are! Accustomed from boyhood to a life of hardship, they have a way of treating Father Neptune with a slightly contemptuous toleration, like an old friend, of somewhat uncertain temper, whose rapid changes from smiling benevolence to wild, blustering anger are on the whole rather amusing than otherwise.

They care nothing for danger and little for suffering—in themselves or in others. Why, then, should they stop to think that perhaps a maimed but still living shark can feel?

The fishing is done off the coast of Iceland in about eighty fathoms of water. Three or four gallows-like structures are rigged up around the sides of the sloop and from each of these hangs a pulley block, over which runs a strong rope, and to the end of this the baited hook is fastened. A plentiful supply of ground bait is thrown out to attract the quarry, and such is the eagerness with which the sharks take the bait that sometimes each one of these gallows-like fishing rods will have its fish hooked and fighting for life all at the same time.

There is no "playing" the fish. It is not necessary or possible, and the powerful tackle is hardly likely to break, no matter how fiercely the hooked shark may struggle. But the shark is not for his size a game fish, and except when he is actually being hoisted out of the water there is no very serious strain on the tackle. If he does now and then get away it is not because he ever manages to break the line, but because a lightly fixed hook easily tears through the soft cartilaginous skeleton of his head and so sets him free.

As soon as a shark has taken one of the baits the hauling tackle attached to his particular gallows is manned, and without any superfluous fuss or ceremony he is hauled up to the sloop and hoisted just clear of the water.

He is not brought on board at all, but with a few bold slashes his liver is cut out as he hangs and is thrown into a tub to be further dealt with later. Then his eyes are put out, and he is cut adrift to go and complete the tardy process of dying where and how he pleases.

All this sounds very horrible, but there is one curious fact which goes far to make us believe that this death cannot, after all, be such a cruel one as at first appears. It is this, the fishermen say—that unless they put out the shark's eyes he will afterward cause them a lot of trouble by coming and taking the bait a second time.

It sounds incredible, but the statement is thoroughly well authenticated by eyewitnesses who have seen a livered shark do just this very thing. Scientists doubtless are right in saying that the shark (which by anatomical classification is one of the lowest of the fishes) does not feel pain in the way more highly organized animals feel it. We will cling to that belief, for it is consoling—to us, if not to the shark, who is thus sacrificed that his liver may supply us with—what?

It is a secret not to be spoken aloud. Norway is one of the great centers of the cod trade, and from cod is made cod liver oil, and shark's liver oil tastes and looks exactly like it.—Pearson's Magazine.

The Nature of an Oath.

Some years ago a case was on trial before the judge of a court in a city adjoining Boston in which among the numerous witnesses for the defense was a decidedly ignorant appearing and shiftless looking colored man named Jones, who was to testify as to an alibi.

He was finally called, and the usual oath was about to be administered, when the attorney for the prosecution arose and addressed his honor, suggesting that Mr. Jones be interrogated as to his understanding of the solemnity of an oath. The judge therefore asked the witness if he understood the nature of an oath, to which he replied, "Yes, sah."

"Well," said his honor, "what is it?" To which Mr. Jones immediately replied, "When you tell a lie, stick to it."—Boston Herald.

Self Control.

A Boston woman was standing on a street crossing waiting for a car when a box of powdered charcoal fell from a passing wagon and broke open. The beautiful light dress she was wearing was ruined by the dust. The driver, who stopped to recover the package, saw the damage and said, "I am very sorry, ma'am." The woman bowed and replied, "It was not your fault, sir." He that taketh a city is indeed a small person beside the possessor of such self control as that.—Youth's Companion.

No sooner was he gone than the negress said to her son, "Sambo, you done gib me dat dollah and go get dat chicken in de natchral way!"—Chicago Inter Ocean.

STAGECOACHING DAYS.

An Old World Era With a Decided Flavor of Romance.

The old coaching days, as far as convenience for travel was concerned, were the dawn of the great days of our present rapid means of communication. The seventy years or so in which mail coaches waxed and flourished and finally died out before the incursion of railways and steam engines have a decided flavor of romance attached to them, and no doubt the coming and going of stagecoaches lent a certain amount of color and interest and life to the country places and towns through which ran the great main coaching roads. The Bath road, the Dover road, the York road were highways of communication along which rolled the heavy private coaches and chariots of the country magnates, and the stagecoaches with their steaming horses passed the various stopping places with the regularity of clockwork.

These stagecoaches, with their complement of coachmen and guards, afforded endless subjects of interest and illustration to the artist and the literary men of the day. Imagine Charles Dickens without stagecoaches and denuded of all his vivid descriptions of the scenes such as those in the yard of the White Hart inn, High street, Borough, in "Pickwick," or of the mail coach on the Dover road in "A Tale of Two Cities." It is difficult for the present generation to realize the fatigue and the wintry cold of such long journeys, when frozen feet were enveloped in a little straw, and a "shawl" folded round the neck was thought to be a fit protection against the keen night air.—London Standard.

THE PRIVATE WON.

Rebuked His Superior Officer and Escaped Court Martial.

Charles Bradlaugh when in the British army was orderly room clerk, and a newly arrived officer once entered the room where he was sitting at work and addressed to him some discourteous order. Private Bradlaugh took no notice. The order was repeated with an oath. Still no movement. Then it came again, with some foul words added. The young soldier rose, drew himself to his full height and, walking up to the officer, bade him leave the room or he would throw him out. He went accordingly, but in a few moments the grounding of muskets was heard outside, the door opened and the colonel walked in, accompanied by the officer.

It was clear that the private soldier had committed an act for which he might be court martialed, and as he said once, "I felt myself in a tight place." The officer made his accusation, and Private Bradlaugh was bidden to explain. He asked that the officer should state the exact words in which he had addressed him, and the other, who had, after all, a touch of honor in him, gave the offensive sentence word for word. Then Private Bradlaugh said, addressing the colonel, that the officer's memory must surely be at fault in the whole matter, as he could not have used language so unbecoming to an officer and a gentleman. The colonel turned to the officer with the dry remark: "I think Private Bradlaugh is right. There must be some mistake." And he left the room.

A Scotch Test.

Auchtermuchty is the happy town which every Scot, proud of his unpronounceable tongue, uses as a shibboleth to test the linguistic skill of the southron. If you cannot say "Auchtermuchty" you are still an uneducated barbarian. The meaning of the word happens to be as monstrous as its sound. "The high ground of the wild sow" is not a name one would choose for a garden city. People, however, are found to flock to it as a summer resort, and as it has a lover's pool, the town has probably attractions more real than its name. In the early part of last century Auchtermuchty went bankrupt and was deprived of all its property except the jail and one or two other assets of an equally necessary character. It is now rich, peaceful and radical.

Poison a Blessing.

Strangely anomalous as it may appear, the existence of active poisons in the animal, vegetable and mineral kingdoms of nature has done more for the development of modern civilized man than have all the other innocuous elemental things which aboriginal man found to his hand. These active poisons were man's first stimulus to first adaptation of poison to the uses of man. The aborigine found himself at once the hunter and the hunted of creation. Whether as hunter or the hunted, he was a pygmy compared with many of the carnivorous beasts in his environment. He saw that, whereas his own considerable physical force and power were as nothing to some of these creatures, the fang of the serpent was all compelling. Where the poisonous serpent struck with poisoned fang and killed its quarry he saw it eat without discomfort or injury. To kill his own food through the venom of the serpent must have been one of man's first elaborated mental processes. As this aborigine applied the venom of the serpent to his arrow and later blended it with the poisons of the vegetable world he may be said to have grown in mental stature.—Technical World Magazine.

How Scores of Bellefonte People Obtain Relief.

If it really were known how many Bellefonte residents have been cured of stomach trouble and digestion by Dr. Davis' Prescription, it might perhaps surprise you, but what is more surprising is the fact that any one will continue to suffer with heart burn, sour stomach, water brash, sick headache, mental depression, nausea, and other distressing symptoms of dyspepsia when there is a remedy of such great merit that it almost invariably benefits every one that tries it. Pepsicola Tablets are the prescription of Dr. Davis, a physician who devoted a lifetime to the study of stomach trouble, and if your food does not agree with you, if you are tired, nervous, worn out, low spirited and your energy at low par, it may interest you to know that no other prescription in this world has a greater record of cures behind it, and there is nothing more certain to give you relief. Mr. C. M. Parrish will tell you that although Pepsikola is sold on the fairest kind of a money back plan, not more than two in one hundred ever come back for their money. This is the surest evidence of its marvelous curative properties, but so that there may not be the least doubt in your mind as to what Pepsikola will do for you, Mr. Parrish will hand your quarter right back to you if you should fail to receive the benefit you look for.

OPERATORS AND MINERS AGREE

Sign Agreement Extending Present Scale Three Years.

WILL BE NO DISCRIMINATION

All Miners Who Have Not Committed Violence Will Be Re-Employed. Tri-District Convention Must Ratify Agreement.

New York, May 8.—After carrying on negotiations for nearly three months the sub-committees representing the anthracite mine workers and operators of Eastern Pennsylvania agreed to continue the award of the strike commission for another three years and the men will return to work as soon as practicable, probably Monday.

All miners who have not committed violence against persons or property will be re-employed and no one will be discriminated against because of any activity he may have taken in the strike movement. The agreement is subject to the ratification of the tri-district convention of mine workers at Scranton, but there is not the slightest doubt that the delegates will approve the action of their representatives.

This outcome of a dispute, which threatened to develop into a long and bitter struggle and paralyze a great industry, was looked upon with considerable satisfaction by the coal road presidents, as the agreement entered into is their first proposition made early in March in reply to the mine workers original demands.

The miners had little to say regarding the agreement except that it was the best they could get. They pointed out, however, that the agreement entered into is the first general agreement that has even been signed between the operators and miners, and they look upon it as a step forward in their efforts to have regular agreements with their employers.

The Agreement.

The following is the text of the agreement:

"Whereas pursuant to the letter of submission signed by the undersigned in 1902, 'all questions at issue between the respective companies and their own employes whether they belong to a union or not,' were submitted to the anthracite coal strike commission to decide as to the same and as to the 'conditions of employment between the respective companies and their own employes' and the said strike commission under date of March 8, 1903, duly made and filed its award upon the subject matter of the submission and provided that said award should continue in force for three years from April 1, 1903, and the said period has expired.

"Now, therefore, it is stipulated between the undersigned in their own behalf in so far as they have power to represent any other parties interest, that the said award and the provisions thereof and any action which has been since taken pursuant thereto, either by the conciliation board or otherwise, shall continue in force for three years from April 1, 1906, namely until March 31, 1909, with like force and effect as if that had been originally prescribed as its duration. That work shall be resumed as soon as practicable and that all men who have not committed violence to person or property shall be re-employed in their old positions."

The agreement is signed by George F. Baer, E. B. Thomas, W. H. Truesdale, David Willcox, John D. Kerr, Morris Williams, Joseph L. Cake, John Mitchell, P. D. Nicholls, John Dempsey, W. Dettrey, John P. Gallagher, John Fahey.

While the compact entered into was predicted last week the agreement was not reached without a final struggle on the part of the miners to get something more. President Mitchell in stating to the operators the action of the Scranton convention asked that the proposed agreement be made for two years. In arguing for the two year term he said the cost of living might increase considerably in three years and that other changes in the mining industry might come that would make the present wage scale unfair to the men. The operators in their reply said they felt that any contingency that might arise was covered by the award of the strike commission and they concluded by asking that the award be continued for three years. This was then agreed to.

In taking up the question of discrimination against some of the men, it was the intention of the mine owners to take back only such men as they chose to re-employ, but President Mitchell contested this point so strongly that the operators withdrew it.

No date has been officially set for the resumption of work. It was thought that Thursday would be selected, but as some of the mines are not in good condition for an immediate resumption the beginning of operations may be delayed until Monday. This is the sixth and the operation of collieries and washeries with them. Only the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western company maintained its normal out-put, that is to say its normal out-put of the past two or three weeks.

Arrangements are already being made by the Delaware & Hudson and the Erie companies for the shipping back of the imports. They will, it is understood, be paid in full and will be furnished transportation to the point from which they were shipped into the region. It is expected that they will be practically all out of the field before Monday next when the resumption of operations will probably be ordered, and that there will be no unpleasantness as a consequence when the old hands return to work.

There are not any visible signs of dissatisfaction among the English-speaking members of the organization. They all seemed convinced that their leaders have shown them the best way out of a bad dilemma and there are few who are at all inclined to criticise the stand taken by John Mitchell, whose honesty of purpose and devotedness of interest to their cause has not suffered in their eyes.

This is not true of the foreign members of the organization, however. A great many of them are plainly dissatisfied. They will have been idle for six weeks when work is resumed, and during that time three pay days have passed. They have been absolutely unable to distinguish between a strike and a suspension. It is freely predicted and not very strenuously denied that the organization will lose a great many of these men during the next three months; that they will be inclined to criticise the leaders and that they will not pay their dues as a consequence. Ordinarily, after a strike, there is a big loss of membership. It is expected that this loss will be heavier this time than it has ever been before.

It was learned on indisputable authority that John Mitchell was opposed to a strike from the very outset. He was opposed to it as a matter of expediency, though he is known to have felt that it would be almost justified as a matter of principle.

Joy at Wilkes-Barre.

Wilkes-Barre, May 8.—The news that an agreement had been reached in New York between the anthracite coal operators and miners committee was received here with the utmost satisfaction. Large groups of miners scanned the bulletins and all gave expression of their pleasure that the dispute had been settled amicably through the influence of their leader, John Mitchell, in whom they expressed themselves as having the fullest confidence.

Building operations and other business in this vicinity that have been at a standstill ever since the mines closed down have already experienced a boom because of the prospects of an early resumption of work.

PRICE OF COAL REDUCED

All Except Steam Sizes Down Forty Cents a Ton.

New York, May 8.—A reduction of 40 cents a ton in all except the steam sizes of anthracite coal was announced by the Lehigh Valley Railroad company. This announcement followed the news that the committees representing the operators and the miners had reached an agreement. The reduction is customary at this time of the year and it is understood that the Reading company will make a similar decrease in price.

TRAINING DOGS.

Poodles the Easiest to Teach, Dachshunds the Most Difficult.

A poodle is the easiest of all to train, and the dachshund is the most difficult, the latter not because he is too stupid, but because he is too smart. A dachshund readily understands what you want him to do, and he can do it, but he thinks he knows a better way, and he invariably tries his way first. As a result, he is never trained in anything that is really difficult. A dachshund seems to be always poking fun at one and getting no little amusement out of it for himself. Collies are easily trained, but they are more or less unreliable, and they are such flatterers. They make you think things are all right and then they run away at the very first opportunity. In preference to other dogs, collies are trained almost exclusively in the militia of Vienna for carrying, in time of war, messages and medicine to and from the camp and the sick soldiers, but they are chosen more for their speed than their faithfulness. Fox terriers are natural acrobats. Within a few weeks one can be trained to turn a somersault. A few weeks more and he will do a double turn. To teach him to do this the trainer calls the animal to him, and as he comes jumping playfully against the trainer he is caught and turned quickly in the air, much to his surprise. He thinks it is play, and he comes jumping up again. After each turn he is given a small piece of meat. In a few weeks he will run up and try independently to do the turn over in the air for the meat, and if he is encouraged it will not be long before he is an accomplished acrobat.—Leslie's Weekly.

DRESS HINTS.

To remove gloss from black garments brush free from dust and sponge with ammonia water.

Don't overdress, but try to suit your dress to your style, and remember that dress makes or mars the woman.

A second gathering thread run just below the first will cause gathers to lay more evenly and will do away with stroking.

Many a dressmaker is blamed for a poor job when the wearer of the costume is alone to blame, in that she is careless about the underwear she puts on with her good dresses.

Glace kid gloves of light color can be satisfactorily cleaned with a paste of flour and gasoline. Apply with a soft cloth to the glove (on the hand), rubbing till quite dry with a clean dry cloth.

Until a girl is really "out" she is not supposed to wear a decollete gown. The waist may be cut out at the neck in either V or round shape, but it is quite unlike the decollete waist of the real ball gown worn by the grownup young lady.

Sheep Jumping Hedges.

There was an old rogue of a farmer who went by the name of Tup Harry. This is how he got his nickname: Harry was a small farmer, and he had a neighbor with better means and a better farm than his own. One very dry season Harry had come to the end of his grass for a flock of sheep he possessed. His neighbor had, however, got a fine field of mangel wurzels. Harry looked over the hedge—a hedge furnished with outstanding slates—and greatly longed for those mangels for his sheep, but he did not relish the risk of being caught taking them. So he went in the evening into his field, that was bare of grass, put his head against the hedge, bent his back and called, "Tup, Tup, Tup!" whereupon up ran his old ram, jumped on his back, went on to the hedge and over into the mangel field, and all the flock in Indian file scampered after him over the back of Harry.

Very early in the morning the rogue went into the devastated mangel field, put his head against the hedge, bent his back and called, "Tup, Tup, Tup!" and up came the ram, ran over his back on to the hedge and returned to the barren quarter again, followed in Indian file by all the flock. That was done several times, and no signs appeared anywhere of the hedge being broken through or of a padlocked gate having been opened. At last the farmer who was robbed hid himself one night and saw the whole proceeding. Tup Harry did not try that trick again. —Chambers' Journal.

The Best Flies For Brook Trout.

The careful angler, if he studies nature at all—and he is not a careful angler unless he does—should always note what flies are on the wing. The commonest fly on mountain brooks is the small black gnat, and a little brown winged fly with black body is also quite common. Not till later in the season—the end of June and beginning of July—do the larger and lighter colored flies appear. The case is different on larger and more open rivers. Even early in the season, if the temperature is at all mild and warm, a greater variety are on the wing. I have caught in one day eleven different flies, making careful notes as to size and color, so that my choice of flies has been made to correspond as nearly as possible with them, with a much better result in fish taken. When buying flies get the best. It is cheapest and best in the end. A well tied fly will stand an extraordinary amount of casting and flipping. Fish after fish may be taken with the same fly if ordinary care is used in extracting it from the fish, while a cheap fly is soon unfit for use. There is nothing more exasperating than to find the tackle untwisted or a wing feather broken just when the fish are rising or at dusk, when it is hard to see to put on a fresh fly.—Outing Magazine.

POINTED PARAGRAPHS.

When you are all done but finishing, you are just half done.

If you have time to boast about being worked to death, you have not much to do.

Some people are so unfortunate that their troubles make people laugh instead of cry.

A man who underestimates himself may be tiresome, but he is not a circumstance to the man who brags.

People may disdain a compliment, but they feel a tender little spot in them where it hit and refused to be dislodged.

It is a theory growing in conviction that the man who says a mean thing about another isn't as mean as the man who carries it.

The man who travels over the path behind you wisely looks at your footprints and sees where you could have avoided many a pitfall.—Atchison Globe.

Tiny Trees.

The midget of the whole tree family is the Greenland birch. It is a perfect tree in every sense of that term and lives its allotted number of years from 75 to 130 just as other species of the great birch family do, although its height under the most favorable conditions seldom exceeds ten inches. Whole bluffs of the east and southeast coast of Greenland are covered with "thickets" of this diminutive species of woody plant, and in many places where the soil is uncommonly poor and frozen from eight to ten months a year a "forest" of these trees will flourish for half a century without growing to a height exceeding four inches.

Strange Dances.

Queensland's government aboriginal settlement on Frazer's island holds a weekly dance for the blacks. Among the bundles of old clothes sent to the settlement there are often ball gowns, so the gins sport decollete dresses. Neither sex wears boots. The sexes have to dance separately.—Sydney Bulletin.

Shrewd Guess.

Senior Partner—We must be careful not to give Billings any more credit. He's evidently losing money. Junior Partner—How do you know? Senior Partner—I heard his remark today that "life is full of ups and downs." No man ever admits that until he begins to strike the down.—Philadelphia Press

Rejected.

"I have called," said the confident young man, with a manuscript sticking out of his pocket, "to see whether there is a vacancy in this office."

"No," replied the melancholy editor as he looked round the place; "I'm sorry to say there is none. Even the waste paper basket is full."

LAUNDRY LINES.

Sprinkle clothes with hot water and whisk broom.

Bran water is thought by some housewives to be the best thing in which to wash fine silk stockings, as soap is apt to make the silk tender.

To remove mud stains from white garments soak the stained portion in oxalic acid, rinse in several waters and finally in ammonia water.

Gutta percha clotheslines are much stronger and last longer than cord. They are not affected by the wet and can be kept absolutely clean with a damp cloth.

When flannel garments must be dried indoors, by all means keep them away from the fire or they will instantly shrink. Hang them in a warm room, but never near the fire.

A little pipeclay dissolved in the water used in washing linen saves a great deal of labor and soap and cleanses the dirtiest linen thoroughly. This method is specially useful where outdoor bleaching is an impossibility.

Room Corners.

Few women realize the decorative possibilities of corners. The result is that even in pretty and artistic rooms the corners are too often left bare, the walls being allowed to meet in hard, straight lines, with nothing to break their monotony. Before attempting to alter this, however, it is well to recognize fully that corner decoration must depend somewhat upon the architectural qualities of the room. When an apartment is small the corners should not be filled up or cut off by placing pieces of furniture diagonally across them, for this only diminishes the apparent size of the room. When the ceiling is low nothing should be put into corners which does not carry the eye beyond its own level. It is, therefore, only in large rooms that we can have absolute freedom in corner decorating.

The Bath.

While the great majority of women have neither the facilities nor the time to take a full bath every day, nearly all can take a sponge bath, which is all that is necessary for cleanliness. A basin, a sponge and a cork mat comprise the essentials, and five minutes' application a day will keep the pores of the skin open and the body in a healthy condition. Some people require more bathing than others. Brunettes as a class and fat people in particular are apt to need more baths and lotions to dispel the secretions and perspiration that defile the skin. In order to live up to the ideal a woman should be exquisitely and habitually clean and rather overstep than fall short of the so called hygienic standard. It is advisable to be suspicious of neatness if necessary in order to perfect it.

Time and Eternity.

The stream of time never runs dry, and the ocean of eternity will forever send its mighty surges mountain high against the bank of time's little stream, sweeping with each receding billow over its expansive bosom the frail human craft from the shore of time, with earth's happiness, human affection, toil, trials, tears and sin, to the eternal shore of celestial beauty and bliss. Oh, mighty ocean of eternity, your wonderful anthem of life and death brings eternal woe and condemnation to him who is untrue to himself and his divine pilot, but to the trusting, faithful man it sings of endless felicity in the presence of time who has redeemed his people from the bondage of sin and has swept them through the pearly gates.—Ducktown (Tenn.) Gazette.

The Wonderful Diatom.

One of the most wonderful things in vegetable life is a beautiful and minute class of seaweeds called diatoms. They belong to the seaweed family, yet they may be found by the thousands in any roadside ditch, fresh or salt water lake or even in cisterns, wells, springs, etc. Most species of plants are made up of an infinite number of little cells, but with the diatom it is otherwise. Each representative of this wonderful family of plants is formed of but a single cell and this so minute that it would require 2,500 of the most common form, laid end to end, to make a string an inch in length. Some species of diatoms have the power of independent motion, and on that account were for some time believed to be animals.

Candy and the Flag.

The following is accredited to the late Senator Hoar: At a Fourth of July celebration in a Canadian town where both English and American guests were assembled the flags of the two countries were used in decorations. A frivolous young English girl, loyal to the queen, but with no love for the stars and stripes, exclaimed: "Oh, what a silly looking thing the American flag is! It suggests nothing but checkerberry candy." "Yes," replied Senator Hoar, "the kind of candy that has made everybody sick who ever tried to lick it."

Charity.

Charity is a universal duty which it is in every man's power sometimes to practice, since every degree of assistance given to another upon proper motives is an act of charity, and there is scarcely any man in such a state of imbecility as that he may not, on some occasions, benefit his neighbor.—Johnson.

His Advantage.

First Man—How do you do? Second Man—Beg pardon, but you have the advantage of me. First Man—Yes; I guess I have. We were engaged to the same girl, but you married her.

THE STARRY SYSTEM

IT IS SO VAST THAT ITS LIMITS ARE BEYOND COMPUTATION.

Considering Some Stupendous Distances by a Scale Greatly Reduced. A Comparison With Our Relatively Small Solar System.

It is worth while making an effort to picture to ourselves the vast extent of the starry system in which we reside. Having gained some faint notion of the extent of the lesser solar system, which occupies a small corner of the stellar system, we must work outward from that beginning. Let us take for our unit of measurement the space which separates the earth from the sun, and let the 92,000,000 miles of this distance be represented in our minds by a single inch. In proportion the sun itself must be pictured by a tiny ball less than one hundredth part of an inch in diameter, while our earth must be a mere speck, less than one ten-thousandth of an inch in diameter. And this little sun and this minute earth must be just an inch asunder.

Following out the same idea, Mercury and Venus, being closer to the sun than we are, have to be less than an inch away from him, while Jupiter will be five inches off, Saturn will be ten inches off, Uranus will be over nineteen inches off, Neptune will be almost thirty inches off. Then the solar system as a whole, leaving only out of the question certain comets which travel farther, will be inclosed in a circle less than two yards in diameter.

The question arises next, What will be the proportionate size of the stellar system on this same scale of measurement? If the solar system is to be comprised with a hoop not two yards across, how wide a space should we allow to the surrounding system of stars, "our universe?" How near will be the nearest of outlying stars? And the answer is sufficiently startling. If the sun is reckoned to be one inch away from our earth, if Neptune is reckoned to be less than three feet away from the sun, then, on the same scale, the star which lies closest of all outer stars in the whole universe to us, Alpha Centauri by name, must be reckoned as lying at a distance of about three and a half miles. And between the two—nothing; at least nothing in the shape of a star. An occasional comet may lag slowly along in the darkness, finding its way from one sun system to another, and dark bodies, cooled suns, may possibly float here or there unseen by us, but of stars, radiant with heat and light, none is found in that wide area.

Astronomical writers sometimes talk of stars "in the vicinity" of the sun, and this is what is meant by "vicinity." Think of the distances implied. Our whole solar system is first brought down into a small circle, two yards across—every inch in those yards standing for more than 90,000,000 miles—and then on every side and above and below is an encompassing void of three and a half miles, every inch of those miles again representing more than 90,000,000 miles. And then we come upon one gleaming star. Only one quite so near. Another star in the sun's "vicinity," known as 61 Cygni, would lie at a distance of seven miles, and the brilliant Sirius would be over 10 miles off. Others must be placed at distances of 20 miles, 50 miles, 100 miles. It is easy to start with a list of these figures. It is not easy to say where one should stop. That the starry system has limits we do not doubt, but to define those limits is not possible. On such a scale as is given above those limits certainly would not lie within a distance of 100 miles nor of 1,000 miles.

It is believed that some dim stars, barely to be detected, may be 10,000 times as far away as our sun's nearest neighbor, Alpha Centauri, and this at once gives, even on our much reduced scale, a line from the center of 35,000 miles. Suppose that the limits of the stellar system lay somewhere about there. Thirty-five thousand miles each way from the center would mean a diameter for the whole of 70,000 miles. Imagine a starry system 70,000 miles across from side to side, each inch in those miles representing 92,000,000 of real miles, and somewhere in the midst of it our small solar system, just two yards across, separated from all other stars by a wide blank of three or four miles.

That would be stupendous enough. But we have no reason whatever for supposing that the limits of our universe do lie there. The true boundaries of the stellar system may be twice as far, four times as far, ten times as far. We do not even know with certainty that our solar system is placed anywhere near its center, though this seems rather likely. Far off as the boundary reaches in one direction, it may reach much farther in another direction.—Chambers' Journal.

Resources of Genius.

The editor looked over the manuscript submitted by the village poet and frowned.

"Here is one line," he said, "in which you speak of 'the music of the cider press.' How would you undertake to imitate the 'music' of the cider press?"

"I should think it might be done with a juice harp," answered the poet.—Chicago Tribune.

Too Much Heart.

"And you rejected him?"

"I did."

"He has the reputation of being large hearted man."

"That's the trouble with him. He too large hearted. He can love half dozen women at the same time."

WILL FIGHT TO FINISH

Soft Coal Operators of Central Pennsylvania Map Out Campaign.

THEY MET IN PHILADELPHIA

Will Insist On Open Shop and Abolition of Check-Off System, the Principal Demands of the Striking Miners.

Philadelphia, May 5—Representatives of 10 of the principal coal and coke companies in the Central Pennsylvania bituminous or Clearfield district, whose employes have quit work pending a settlement of the differences existing between them, met in the office of the Erie & Western Coal company here and mapped out a plan of campaign against the claims of the mine workers. The coal operators were in session several hours, and at the conclusion of the meeting the following statement was made:

"We will fight it out at whatever cost. There will be no settlement and we will not recede from our position. This is final and is the unanimous decision of the operators.

"We will insist upon an open shop and the abolition of the check-off system. There can be no other course for us to follow, and it will be a finish fight."

The operators are making preparations to open their mines next week. George E. Scott, who was secretary of the meeting, and who is connected with the Puritan Coal company, declared that his company's mines as well as others would be opened upon the open shop basis and without the check-off system, the two principal demands the miners' union is fighting for. The operators claim that last year under the check-off system they collected from the men $51,078 which they turned over to the union for the payment of check-off men on the tipples. This money, they maintain, does not all go to the check-off men, but much of it is retained for the purpose of fighting the companies in strike times.

The companies that participated in the conference represented, it is said, invested capital of more than $100,000,000. They are: Pennsylvania Coal & Coke company, Rochester & Pittsburg Coal & Iron company, Morrisdale Coal company, Peale, Peacock & Kerr Coal company, Sterling Coal company, Beech Creek Coal company, Irish Brothers, Puritan Coal company, Crescent Coal company and Erie & Western Coal company.

GUARDSMEN QUELL RIOT

Striking Italians Disperse When They Learn Militia Are Coming.

Philadelphia, May 5.—Half of the members of Company I, sixth regiment, Pennsylvania National Guard, whose headquarters is at West Chester, Pa., were called upon to quell a riot among Italians working in the quarries of the Knickerbocker Lime company, near Malvern, about 20 miles west of this city. When the guardsmen, who had been hastily sworn in as deputy sheriffs, reached the scene of the disturbance fully equipped for serious work, they found the trouble over and returned to West Chester.

Several hundred foreigners are employed at the quarries, and some of them went on strike over some differences with the company. The lime concern filled their places, and the strikers threatened to attack the other workmen. The situation became so serious that Sheriff Garrett, of West Chester, was appealed to for aid. He summoned Captain Baldwin, of Company I, who was trying a case in the courthouse, and together they called out 28 members of the company. They were sworn in as deputies, given their equipment and left at once on a special train for the quarries. The unruly Italians heard of their coming and scattered, and when the militiamen arrived the place was quiet.

Later the lime company settled the differences with the men and no further trouble is looked for.

Cow Wrecks a Train.

Shreveport, La., May 5.—The northbound Texas & Pacific passenger train No. 53 has been wrecked at Sodus, 50 miles south of Shreveport, as the result of a collision with a cow and a calf. The engine and all coaches except the chair and sleepers were thrown from the track down an embankment. The engineer and fireman were killed, two passengers seriously injured and several others slightly hurt.

AFTER THE OIL TRUST

Department of Justice to Ascertain if Law Was Violated.

PROSECUTIONS MAY FOLLOW

If It Is Found Rebates Have Been Given By Railroads and Accepted By the Oil Trust, It Will Be Taken Before Grand Jury.

Washington, May 4.—The statement is authoritatively made that the department of justice will immediately begin an investigation of the relations of the so-called oil trust and a number of railroads with a view of determining whether there have been violations of the anti-rebate law.

The basis for this investigation will be the information recently submitted to the president in a report of Commissioner Garfield, of the bureau of corporations, which is soon to be made public This report, it is learned, deals only with the subject of rebates and does not go into the questions of violations of the anti-trust law.

If it is found that rebates have been given by the railroads and accepted by the so-called oil trust, steps will be at once taken, it is asserted, to bring the matter before the grand juries in the localities where the alleged violations took place, with a view to prosecutions in the courts. It is not thought that the department of justice in conducting its inquiries will require the services of any one outside of the department proper, and the United States attorneys and other officers under its immediate direction. It is stated that Mr. Garfield, in conducting his investigation, traveled extensively and visited all important sections covered by the operations of the so-called oil trust, from New England to California, and the south, and that the evidence obtained is amply sufficient to warrant the department of justice in taking the couse decided upon.

Fighting Standard Oil in Ohio.

Lima, O., May 4.—Sheriff Van Gunten received from the circuit court at Toledo subpoenas for the local officials of the Standard Oil company, including Superintendent Hilliman, of the Ohio Oil company, and General Manager Barstow, of the Solar Refining company. The subpoenas direct the officers of the Ohio and Solar companies to give testimony in the hearing of the ouster proceedings brought by Prosecutor Wachenheimer at Toledo. The statement is made here that Frank S. Monnett, ex-attorney general, has gone to Casey, Ill., with a view of endeavoring to extend the anti-Standard fight into Indiana and Illinois.

JERSEY ELECTION LAWS SIGNED

Heavy Penalties For Using Money to Influence Voters.

Trenton, N. J., May 4.—Governor Stokes signed two important bills introduced by Mr. Marelli and amending the election laws. One of these provides a penalty of five year disfranchisement to expend any money to improperly influence voters or for employers to exercise any duress or threats to influence the votes of their employes. For a second offense an additional disfranchisement of five years and a fine of $1000 is provided. It is provided that no person may refuse to testify on the ground of self-incrimination, but it is further provided that testimony so given shall not be used against the person testifying.

Another bill prohibits the expenditure of money to influence the election or nomination of any person for any of the following purposes: The furnishing of meat, drink or entertainment; the payment of rent of club rooms or the purchase of uniforms for organized clubs. It is also provided that no money can be expended for advertising to influence voters unless such advertisement contains the name of the advertiser. Disfranchisement for two years is provided as a penalty for violation under this law

Tie-Up On Great Lakes.

Buffalo, May 4.—The tie-up on the Great Lakes is almost complete. The firemen struck on four of the six vessels which arrived from upper lake ports. When the steamers R. L. Ireland, Thomas Adams, J. M. Jenks and J. H. Devereaux tied up at their docks union scouts were in hand to see that the men on board obeyed strike orders. The men needed no urging and at once left their boats. Officials of the various package freight lines are making no efforts to get their boats away with non-union crews, and they announced that the boats were to be tied up as fast as they make port. No grain is being unloaded.

Charged With Stealing Diamonds.

Boston, May 4.—Harry J. Diggs was arrested here for the police of Baltimore in which city he is charged with the larcenry of several thousand dollars worth of diamonds. Diggs was found in a house in Charleston in the company of two women and from the latter the police took a quantity of jewelry part of which contained diamonds which it is said, had been recently re-set. The women were held.

Only Seven Cases On Court List

Harrisburg, Pa., May 8.—The May term of the Supreme State court convened here, with Chief Justice Archbald presiding. There are seven criminal cases on the list. A session of the court was held for the naturalization of several persons.

BELLS IN CHURCHES.

FIRST USED BY PAULINUS, BISHOP OF NOLA, ABOUT 400.

The Early British Christians Used Wooden Rattles to Call the People Together For Worship—Bells and Thunder and Lightning.

Church bells are of ancient origin. The ancients had bells for both sacred and profane purposes. Strabo says that market time was announced by their sound and Pliny that the tomb of an ancient king of Tuscany was hung round with bells. The hour of bathing was made known in ancient Rome by the sound of a bell. The night watchman carried one, and it served to call up the servants in great houses. Sheep had them tied about their necks to frighten away wolves, or, rather, by way of amulet.

Paulinus, bishop of Nola, is generally considered the first person who introduced bells into ecclesiastical service about the year 400. Historians say that in 610 the bishop of Orleans, being at Seno, then in a state of siege, frightened away the besieging army by ringing St. Stephen's church bells, which is a clear proof that they were not at that time generally known in France. The first large bells are mentioned by Bede in the year 680. Before that period the early British Christians made use of wooden rattles to call the congregation of the faithful together. Hand bells probably first appeared at religious processions and were afterward used by the seculars. The small bells were not always held in the hand. They were sometimes suspended upon a stake and struck with hammers.

The arrival of kings and great personages was anciently greeted by ringing the church bells. Inguiohus, abbot of Croyland, who died about 1109, speaks of them as being well known in his time and says that "the first abbot of Croyland gave six bells to that monastery—that is to say, two great ones, which he named Bartholomew and Beiadine; two of a medium size, called Turketulium and Bettrine; two small ones, denominated Pega and Bega. He also caused the great bell to be made called Gudla, which was tuned to the other bell and produced an admirable harmony not to be equaled in England."

The bells used in the monasteries were sometimes rung with ropes having brass or silver rings at the ends for the hand. They were anciently rung by the priests themselves, afterward by the servants and sometimes by those incapable of other duties, as persons who were blind.

The doctrine of the Church of Rome concerning bells is that they have merit and pray God for the living and the dead; second, that they produce devotion in the hearts of the faithful. The dislike of evil spirits to bells is well expressed by Wynken de Worde in the "Golden Legend." The passing bell was anciently rung for two good purposes, one to bespeak the prayers of all good Christian people for a soul just departing and the other to drive away the evil spirits who stood at the foot of the bed or about the house. Such was the general opinion respecting the efficacy of bells before the reformation, but since that period "it has been the usual course in the Church of England that when any sick person lay dying a bell should toll to give notice to the neighbors that they might pray for the dying party, which was commonly called a passing bell, because the sick person was passing hence to another world, and when his breath was expired the bell rung out that the neighbors might cease their prayers, for that the party was dead." It is now only tolled after death.

The saint's bell was not so called from the name of the saint that was inscribed on it or of the church to which it belonged, but because it was always rung out when the priest came to that part of the service, "Sanctus, Sanctus, Sanctus, Domine Deus Sabbaoth," purposely that those persons who could not come to church might know in what a solemn office the congregation were at that instant engaged and so, even in their absence, be once, at least, moved to lift up their hearts to him who made them. Bells at one time were thought an effectual charm against lightning. The frequent firing of abbey churches by lightning confuted the proud motto commonly written on their bells in the steeples, wherein each entitled itself to a sixfold efficacy—viz:

Men's death I tell by doleful knell;
Lightning and thunder I break asunder;
On Sabbath all to church I call;
The sleepy head I raise from bed;
The winds so fierce I dost disperse;
Men's cruel rage I do assuage.

It has anciently been reported, observed Lord Bacon, and is still received that extreme applause and shouting of people assembled in multitudes have so rarefied and broken the air that birds flying over have fallen down, the air not being able to support them, and it is believed by some that great ringing of bells in populous cities has chased away thunder and also dissipated pestilent air.—New York Herald.

Tunkhannock, Pa., May 8.—Orin V. Love, a wealthy lumberman of Mehoopany, this county, and his son, George, aged 18 years, were drowned in the Susquehanna river at Meshoppen. Mr. Love owned a ferry at Meshoppen and an effort was being made to string a new cable for it. The two Loves and Charles Shoemaker were out in a boat handling the heavy wire when the craft was capsized. Shoemaker was rescued 15 or 20 rods down the river. The body of George Love has not been found.

RUSHING WORK IN FRISCO

Temporary Frame Buildings Being Erected In Burned District.

San Francisco, May 8.—Construction of temporary frame business buildings is proceeding rapidly in the burned area, merchants showing undaunted energy and pluck in an effort to resume business. Thousands of clerks, stenographers, bookkeepers and other office employes, as well as professional men, finding themselves out of employment, are seeking work as laborers in the clearing away of the debris left by the earthquake, fire and dynamite.

What is to be done with the great number of men and women who cannot get down to the level of common workmen is a question that is puzzling the city officers.

From this time forward the efforts of the municipal officials and existing committees will be directed almost solely to the task of constructing the city. Active sub-committees have been appointed and plans for practical work and accomplishments will be presented to Mayor Schmitz this week.

Relief work is proceeding smoothly along the lines arranged by the city. The issuance of food tickets has begun.

The finance committee reported that the amount of relief subscriptions confirmed to date was $4,406,248.

CAUSE OF THE EARTHQUAKE

Due to Splitting of Mountain, the Side Falling Toward the Sea.

San Francisco, May 5.—Geologists who have been searching since the earthquake of April 18 to find the cause of the seismic disturbance reported that they have found in the Seirra Morena mountains, a few miles south of San Francisco, what appears to be indisputable evidence that their theory that the earthquake was due to a change in the mountains. At the summit of the Sierra Morena mountains, near Stanford University, is an immense crevice in the earth, the appearance of which indicates that the range split at the top, the side nearer the ocean falling toward the sea.

This crevice is at places three to six inches wide; it has been followed by geologists for more than four miles along the crest of the range. At places the crack in the range is of considerable depth, and at other points the evidences show that the parting of the great mass of rock and earth was followed by a partial closing of the gap. The split follows the line of the range north and south, this being the general direction of the earthquake shock.

WOULD REGULATE THE OIL TRUST

President Suggests Federal Control of Railroads to Prevent Rebates.

SENT MESSAGE TO CONGRESS

Declares They Aided Standard Oil to Build Up Giant Monopoly By Unlawful Discrimination, and Suggests Railroads Be Examined as Strictly as Banks and Inter-State Commerce Commission Fix Rates.

Washington, May 5. — President Roosevelt in a message to congress accompanying Commissioner Garfield's report on the Standard Oil company, blames the railroads for fostering such monopolies through secret rebates. He suggests these methods for curbing corporations:

First—That the government examine railroads as thoroughly as it examines national banks.

Second—That railroad rates be fixed by the inter-state commerce commission subject to court review.

Third—That the railroads be permitted to combine to protect themselves against great industrial corporations.

Fourth—That alcohol be placed on the free list.

Fifth—That the remaining government oil lands be carefully protected.

Flagrant discriminations by the railroads in favor of the Standard Oil company are revealed by Commissioner Garfield's report on his investigation. In almost every section of the country that corporation has enjoyed unfair advantages which have given it a monopoly.

That the Standard not only received secret rates from the railroads in the past but is still receiving them is one of Mr. Garfield's charges. In 1904 alone he figures that the amount saved to the corporation through discrimination was $750,000.

Some direct rebates were paid he discovered. In most states, though the discrimination by the railroads was effected through secret and semi-secret rates, discriminations in the open arrangement of rates, discriminations in classification and rules of shipment and discrimination in treatment of private tank cars.

So long continued, so secret, so ingeniously applied to new conditions of trade, and so large in amount have these discriminations been, says Mr. Garfield, as to make certain that they were due to concerted action by the Standard and the railroads.

Most of the secret rates and some of the open discriminations discovered by Mr. Garfield's bureau have been abolished by the railroads after such discovery. Therefore he thinks his investigation has already done good.

The price of oil, says Mr. Garfield, is from two to five cents a gallon higher in states where the Standard has no competitors. For shutting out the independents he blames the railroads in those states.

President's Message.

In his message the president expresses the view that the report is of great importance because of the effort now being made to secure such enlargement of the powers of the interstate commerce commission as will confer upon the commission power to meet the clearly demonstrated needs of the situation. The statement is added that the department of justice will take up the question of instituting prosecutions in at least certain of the cases, and the hope is expressed that congress will enact into law a bill of Senator Knox to correct the interpretation of the immunity provision rendered in Judge Humphrey's decision.

Continuing, the president says:

"The report shows that the Standard Oil company has benefited enormously up almost to the present moment by secret rates, many of these secret rates being clearly unlawful. The benefit amounts to at least $750,000 a year. This $750,000 represents the profit that the Standard Oil company obtains at the expense of the railroads; but of course the ultimate result is that it obtains a much larger profit at the expense of the public.

Big Profits in Secret Rates.

"But in addition to these secret rates the Standard Oil profits immensely by open rates, which are so arranged as to give it an overwhelming advantage over its independent competitors. The refusal of the railroads in certain cases to prorate produces analogous effects. Thus, in New England the refusal of certain railway systems to prorate has resulted in keeping the Standard Oil in absolute monopolistic control of the field, enabling it to charge $300,000 to $400,000 a year more to the consumers of oil in New England than they would have had to pay had the price paid been that obtained in the competitive fields.

Sugar Trust Favored.

"The attorney-general reports to me that the investigation now going on as to the shipments by the sugar trust over the trunk lines running out of New York city tends to show that the sugar trust rarely if ever pays the lawful rate for transportation, and is thus improperly, and probably unlawfully, favored at the expense of its competitors and of the general public.

"In the effort to prevent the railroads from uniting for improper purposes we have very unwisely prohibited them from uniting for proper purposes; that is, for purposes of protection to themselves and to the general public as against the power of the great corporations. They should certainly be given power thus to unite on conditions laid down by congress, such conditions to include the specific approval of the inter-state commerce commission of any agreement to which the railroads may come. In addition to this, the government must interfere through its agents to deprive the railroad of the ability to make to the big corporations the concessions which otherwise it is powerless to refuse.

Government Should Examine Railways

"The government should have power by its agents to examine into the conduct of the railways—that is, the examiners under the direction of the inter-state commerce commission should be able to examine as thoroughly into the affairs of the railroad as bank examiners now examine into the affairs of banks.

"Though not bearing upon the question of railroad rates, there are two measures consideration of which is imperatively suggested by the submission of this report. The Standard Oil company has, largely by unfair or unlawful methods, crushed out home competition. It is highly desirable that an element of competition should be introduced by the passage of some such law as that which has already passed the house, putting alcohol used in the arts and manufactures upon the free list.

"Furthermore, the time has come when no oil or coal lands held by the government, either upon the public domain proper or in territory owned by the Indian tribes, should be alienated. The fee to such lands should be kept in the United States government whether or not the profits arising from it are to be given to any Indian tribe, and the lands should be leased only on such terms and for such periods as will enable the government to keep entire control thereof."

Odd Graveyard Inscriptions.

At Worcester, England, the slat erected over a departed autioneer is inscribed with a single word, "Gone." In Sussex the initials and date of the death of the deceased are followed by two words, "He was." The most remarkable inscription is at Cane Hill cemetery, Belfast, where the inscription says "Left till called for."

The Word "Expire."

"Expire" in its literal sense is breathing out. Inspiration and expiration together constitute respiration. Izaak Walton observed that "if the inspiring or expiring organ of any animal be stopt it suddenly dies." The Romans spoke of "breathing out" the breath of life instead of "dying," by way of euphemism, just as they said "Vixit" (he has lived) instead of "he is dead." In all languages the reluctance frankly to say "death" or "die" appears; hence such words and phrases as "pass away," "decease," "demise," "the departed," "defunct," "the late," "no more," "if anything should happen to me."

FRISCO QUIETING DOWN

Confusion and Misunderstanding Has Disappeared.

Citizens' Committee Working In Harmony and Conditions Becoming Normal—Wholesale Business Houses Settling In Oakland.

San Francisco, April 28.—Harmony and pledges of good feeling marked the meetings of the various bodies of citizens' committees and representatives of the army which are administering the affairs of San Francisco.

The last sign of confusion and misunderstanding which at times existed disappeared and the first signs of the return to former conditions were the resumption of street car traffic in certain streets and the taking out of the first permit for the erection of a modern steel structure on the ground occupied a few days ago by a less substantial building.

Archbishop Riordan appeared at the meeting of the citizens' general committee, and in an eloquent speech counselled harmony between those who are striving to bring order out of chaos, and predicted a city greater, more beautiful and more striking and a more striking example of American pluck and enterprise than the old San Francisco.

"Union should be our watchword," said the archbishop, "and whatever differences may have existed between the men of this community in the past should be wiped out. The Catholic church is among the very heaviest losers, but we are undismayed, and I come here today to tell you that the noble men and women over whom I have direction are at your service."

Mayor Schmitz replied to these sentiments in a speech equally eloquent, saying that harmony already prevailed and that whatever enmity may have been felt in the past was wiped out, and the citizens of San Francisco had but one object in view: the immediate upbuilding of a new and better municipality.

Dr. Edward Devine, of the Red Cross, announced that the military quartermaster would hereafter issue supplies only on requisitions signed by a member of the committee on the feeding of the hungry.

The question of the resumption of wholesale business in San Francisco was taken up.

Thomas McGee said that wholesalers in large numbers were settling in Oakland, and that there was great danger that this settlement might be permanent, those who applied for quarters there being required to take out leases for five years.

The mayor said this movement must be stopped at all hazards, and that every facility must be afforded wholesalers to open temporary quarters in San Francisco.

The only limitation placed by the authorities was that the buildings should be more than one story in height. The erection of permanent buildings must await the forming of the new building laws. The mayor appointed a special committee on wholesalers to aid in re-establishing wholesale houses in San Francisco.

Former Chief of Police Wittman, of the committee on the resumption of business, said there were now 300 retail stores of various descriptions in operation in San Francisco. The obtaining of stocks for these stores was still a serious problem. There had been unwillingness to open warehouses for the delivery of goods for fear of further military confiscations.

Mayor Schmitz informed Mr. Sproule that General Greely had issued an order that there should be no further confiscations under any circumstances.

City and railroad officials and invited guests filled the first street car started on the run across the city. Many

AGREED ON RATE BILL

Republican Leaders in Senate Dispose of Points in Dispute.

RESTRICTIONS ON COURT REVIEW

Provides That No Order of Inter-State Commission Shall Be Set Aside Without a Hearing Unless Five Days Notice be Given.

Washington, May 8.—The situation of the railroad rate bill has taken another decided change and at the same time there was an additional step toward final agreement as to what the judicial review amendment shall be. The Allison compromise proposition met with such determined opposition from those senators who have fought against a "broad" court review that despite President Roosevelt's acceptance of it and his declaration that other provisions he had advocated were not vital, an agreement was reached by which several restrictions will be placed on the review proposition. These were agreed upon in consequence of many informal conferences on the floor of the senate during debate. The result is that in return for the amendment conferring jurisdiction on circuit courts to review orders of the commission friends of the bill demanded and, by agreement of senate leaders, will secure counter-concessions as follows:

That no order of the commission shall be suspended or set aside by an interlocutory order or decree without a hearing had on the application therefor, unless at least five days' notice shall be given to the commission of the time and place fixed for said hearing.

That such order shall not be made unless two judges of the court to which application is made shall concur in such interlocutory order or decree.

That an appeal from such interlocutory order or decree may be taken within 30 days from the entry thereof, but shall lie only to the supreme court of the United States.

That the rate making section of the bill shall not be amended.

After the adjaurnment of the senate Monday Senators Aldrich, Knox, Carter, Hopkins, Cullom, Fulton and Crane met in Senator Aldrich's committee room. At the conclusion Senator Aldrich stated that the bill would be passed with section 4 left just as it came from the house. One of the arguments that accomplished this result was the action of several senators in pointing out that Senator Knox's rate bill authorized the commission to fix rates which in its judgment were just and reasonable and that the same language appeared in the Massachusetts statutes.

The conference it is believed has about disposed of the points in dispute. The agreement reached by Republicans leaders is a concession to the Democrats. The amendment providing for the giving of notice of hearings for injunctions was first offered by Senator Overman; Senator Bacon originated the proposition for the hearing of such applications by two judges and several Democrats introduced amendments providing for appeals direct to the supreme court. Senate leaders representing both factions predicted that the compromise amendments will be adopted.

What a "Hurricane" Is.

"Hurricane" is the old Spanish name for a West Indies cyclone, but it is used by modern meteorologists to designate a long continued wind of extreme violence. In Beaumont's scale the different winds are classed as "light," "gentle," "fresh" and "strong" breezes. The next is a "stiff" breeze, then a "strong" wind and then we strike the "gales." The "gales" run through three or four classes, the last merging into the "hurricane."

FOLEY'S HONEY AND TAR
stops the cough and heals lungs

THE above picture of the man and fish is the trade-mark of Scott's Emulsion, and is the synonym for strength and purity. It is sold in almost all the civilized countries of the globe.

If the cod fish became extinct it would be a world-wide calamity, because the oil that comes from its liver surpasses all other fats in nourishing and life-giving properties. Thirty years ago the proprietors of Scott's Emulsion found a way of preparing cod liver oil so that everyone can take it and get the full value of the oil without the objectionable taste. Scott's Emulsion is the best thing in the world for weak, backward children, thin, delicate people, and all conditions of wasting and lost strength.

Sidney Krumrine Sells Hyomei Under Guarantee of Cure.

The changeable weather of Spring is directly responsible for the prevalence of catarrhal troubles in Bellefonte at the present time.

As a result Sidney Krumrine had a larger sale for Hyomei the past week than ever before in the years that he has handled this reliable treatment for the cure of catarrh.

If there is a single catarrhal germ in the system, Hyomei will search it out and absolutely destroy it, completely eradicating the trouble. The remedy has made so many cures among Sidney Krumrine's customers that he offers to pay for it himself if it does not benefit even the worst case of catarrh.

The complete outfit costs only $1, consisting of an inhaler, medicine dropper, and bottle of Hyomei, while extra bottles of Hyomei can be obtained for 50 cents. There will not be even this small expense if Hyomei does not cure, as Sidney Krumrine will return your money.

MICHAEL ANGELO.

The Humble Start In Life of the Famous Master.

Two boys were herding swine in Italy. They were evidently discussing some very important subject, for they were earnest at it. A man approached, and the boys separated, each for his own side of the pasture. The man was angry and was shaking his hand at them. The boys said nothing; they drove their swine in and were quiet as a mouse about it. The man had said they should stay out until dark, and the sun had not even set yet. After they had driven the swine to their respective places each crept to his room, took his clothes and tied them in a bundle. This done, they both crept down and ran to the road which led to Rome. One's name was Peter; the other Michael Angelo. Both were poor boys. They tramped and tramped, and the first thing they did when they reached Rome was to go to church. After they had rested and prayed they looked for employment. Peter received employment as the cook's boy in some cardinal's house, but Michael could find nothing to do, so he almost despaired.

He went to his friend Peter, who gave him something to eat and at night secretly let him into his room in the attic to sleep. This went on for a long time, Peter content to let his friend do this and Michael content also. Michael when in church had seen some fine pictures. One which fascinated him was "Christ Ascending to Heaven." Taking bits of charcoal, he went to Peter's room and drew pictures on the white walls. One day the cardinal had occasion to go to the room. Michael had meanwhile secured employment in the cardinal's kitchen. The cardinal, upon seeing all the pictures, was dumfounded with their accurateness. He called Peter and Michael upstairs and asked who had drawn them. Michael confessed he had, but said he thought he could rub them out again. The cardinal explained to him that it was all right so far as the wall was concerned. He took Michael and sent him to a drawing master and gave Peter a better position. And Michael worked hard at his drawings, learned diligently and became the renowned Michael Angelo, one of the greatest painters of his time.

VEGETABLES AS MEDICINE.

Asparagus stimulates the kidneys.

Water cress is an excellent blood purifier.

Parsnips possess the same virtues as sarsaparilla.

Carrots are good for those having a tendency to gout.

Celery contains sulphur and helps to ward off rheumatism.

Celery is a nerve tonic; onions also are a tonic for the nerves.

Tomatoes are good for a torpid liver, but should be avoided by gouty people.

Beets are fattening and good for people who want to put on flesh; so are potatoes.

Lettuce has a soothing effect on the nerves and is excellent for sufferers from insomnia.

Spinach has great aperient qualities and is far better than medicine for sufferers from constipation.

Hatching Eggs In the Mouth.

Some curious examples of the egg laying habits of certain frogs are related by naturalists. The female of one species, a species which was recently exhibited at a meeting of the Zoological society, carries the eggs about in her mouth until they are hatched. When the young emerge they are tadpoles, but fully formed, though, of course, diminutive frogs. An American tree frog, again, has a pouch along the whole extent of its back, in which the eggs are carried until hatched. It is the Nototrema marsupiatum of zoologists, the name referring to this curious habit. The case of the Surinam toad is equally curious. In this species the male places the eggs, one by one, in hollows in the loose skin on the back of the female, where they are developed.—London Globe.

Waiting to Be Found.

Lost one evening in a side street off Charing Cross, a small terrier came for the next six days at nightfall to the same spot, waiting to be "found" and scanning eagerly every passerby. The constable on the beat got to know her wistful little face and the bright silver collar she wore quite well, but she was never to be seen by daylight. It was only on the sixth evening, half starved and weak with waiting, that she allowed herself to be captured and taken to the dogs' home at Battersea, where she was eventually claimed by her owner.—St. James' Gazette.

Her Gift.

A Lancashire vicar was asked by the choir to call upon old Betty, who was deaf, but who insisted in joining in the solo of the anthem, and to ask her only to sing in the hymns. He shouted into her ear, "Betty, I've been requested to speak to you about your singing!" At last she caught the word "singing" and replied: "Not to me be the praise, sir. It's a 'gift.'"

A Poisonous Frog.

People in general look upon all species of the frog as being perfectly harmless. Should you be traveling in New Granada (United States of Colombia), however, you would do well to let a certain little tree croaker severely alone. He secretes a poison equally as deadly as that of the rattlesnake. It exudes from his skin in the shape of a milky liquid and is used by the natives as a poison for their arrows.

Pale, Thin, Nervous?

Then your blood must be in a very bad condition. You certainly know what to take, then take it—Ayer's Sarsaparilla. If you doubt, then consult your doctor. We know what he will say about this grand old family medicine. Sold for over 60 years.

This is the first question your doctor would ask: "Are your bowels regular?" He knows that daily action of the bowels is absolutely essential to recovery. Keep your liver active and your bowels regular by taking laxative doses of Ayer's Pills.

DISORDERS IN PARIS

Thousands of Soldiers Held City Against Strike Mob.

OVER 1000 ARRESTS WERE MADE

Although Dreaded May Day Did Not Bring a Revolution, Troops Were Kept Busy Scattering Disorderly Crowds.

Paris, May 2.—The long dreaded May Day failed to bring the revolution which inflammatory journals predicted but none the less it brought scenes of extreme violence. The labor districts, which thousands of troops controlled with difficulty, and even general portions of Paris, have taken on the appearance of a siege, with regiments of infantry and cavalry camped about the Arc de Triomphe, the bourse, the Bank of France and the great railway station, while military sentinels paced before banks and private establishments. The main thoroughfares in the residential portion of Paris remain tranquil. In the west end, far removed from riotous scenes, people were disposed to treat the events in the labor quarters as harmless effervescence. It was, however, much more than that. Throughout the afternoon dragoons, Republican guards and cuirassiers charged disorderly masses, sweeping the Place de la Republique and the broad boulevard de Magenta. Toward nightfall cavalry charged with drawn swords and many persons were wounded on both sides. The manifestants overturned omnibuses and threw up hasty barricades. Over 1000 arrests were made.

At no time did the demonstration reach the magnitude of a revolt, but was rather a leaderless tumult in which the serious labor element, struggling for a principle, was hopelessly confused with violent agitators, anarchists, revolutionists, roughs and a large number of the curious. The workmen never succeeded in forming a procession or ever in assembling more than scattered bands. Their chief action was a reunion of several thousands in the labor exchange, at which a resolution was adopted not to return to work until the eight-hour day shall have been accorded.

The worst hours of the day were towards evening, when the police practically lost control and were compelled to rely on the mounted troops. The latter, forming in lines 20 yards across and 15 yards apart, swept around the Place de la Republique, driving the disorderly crowds into the surrounding streets. Most of the mob sought refuge in the boulevard de Magenta and at the Quai de Valmy, which became centres of disorders. Here trumpets sounded repeated commands to disperse, and the cavalry galloped into the crowds, trampling and injuring many. A body of foot guards became surrounded by manifestants and was rescued with difficulty by the cavalry with drawn swords. A considerable number were wounded.

Throughout the disorders the authorities succeeded in executing their original plan of holding the disturbances strictly within the limits of the labor district and not permitting them to press towards the wealthy commercial and residential sections. The banks were closed.

Reports from the provinces show that there were violent demonstrations at Marseilles, Brest, Bordeaux, St. Etienne, Lyons and Rouen. At Marseilles processions carrying red flags and creating violent disorder came in collision with the troops, and a number of persons were injured. At Bordeaux processions paraded the streets singing revolutionary songs, and the cavalry charged them, wounding many. At Lyons a crowd of manifestants attacked the street cars, breaking the glass windows, whereupon the dragoons charged the rioters, wounding a large number. There were lesser disturbances at many points.

Thieves Stole Cornerstone.

Pasadena, Cal., May 2.—Thieves stole the cornerstone of the North Pasadena Methodist Church. The stone weighs about 300 pounds, and contained coins and other small valuables worth probably $10. The church was just completed a few days ago, and is a large and expensive edifice. The cornerstone was pried out of the building and removed entirely from the premises.

Over-Work Weakens Your Kidneys.

Unhealthy Kidneys Make Impure Blood.

All the blood in your body passes through your kidneys once every three minutes.

The kidneys are your blood purifiers, they filter out the waste or impurities in the blood.

If they are sick or out of order, they fail to do their work.

Pains, aches and rheumatism come from excess of uric acid in the blood, due to neglected kidney trouble.

Kidney trouble causes quick or unsteady heart beats, and makes one feel as though they had heart trouble, because the heart is over-working in pumping thick, kidney-poisoned blood through veins and arteries.

It used to be considered that only urinary troubles were to be traced to the kidneys, but now modern science proves that nearly all constitutional diseases have their beginning in kidney trouble.

If you are sick you can make no mistake by first doctoring your kidneys. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases and is sold on its merits by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also pamphlet telling you how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. Mention this paper when writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

Chronic Bronchitis Cured.

On my recommendation many people have used Foley's Honey and Tar, and always with satisfaction.' For sale by C. M. Parrish.

An Enterprising Barrister.

An English barrister was once engaged in a nautical case, in which it appeared that a vessel had been exposed to a very severe gale of wind and had been thrown upon her beam ends. The barrister, ignorant of nautical matters, asked a seaman who was in the witness box how it was they did not lower the topmast, upon which the witness said, with a sneer, "If you knew as much of the sea as I do you would know that this is not a very easy matter." This incident led the counsel to turn his attention to the subject, and he invented an apparatus for lowering topmasts, for which he obtained a patent and realized thereby upward of $100,000 by his invention.

THE REPUBLICAN PRIMARIES.

Were Held on Saturday Afternoon and Evening.

On Saturday afternoon and evening the Republicans of Centre county assembled in the different voting precincts throughout the county for the purpose of holding their primary elections. This is the last time that primary elections will be held in this manner as the new election law goes into effect next January. The Democrats and Republicans will hold their primaries together. The election passed off quietly and a very small vote was polled.

Ex-Judge John G. Love received the endorsement for Congress without opposition. The contest between Henry Quigley and Hon. P. E. Womelsdorf for State Senator was quited spirited and resulted in a victory for Quigley. For the legislature the old soldier element held full sway as both the contestants were old soldiers. C. T. Fryberger will probably be the nominee defeating John A. Daley of Romola. Clement H. Gramley received the majority for Jury Commissioner over Theophilus Pletcher. For delegates to the State Convention John P. Harris and Phil D. Foster are out of the woods, leaving a contest for third place between S. H. Wigton and E. R. Chambers.

There are ten precincts yet to hear from. The precincts heard from give the number of delegates instructed as follows:

State Senate—Quigley 77½, Womelsdorf 38½.

Legislature—Fryberger 64, Daley 46

Jury Commissioner—Gramley 68, Pletcher 29.
